

Stanford Health Care Employee Awards Banquet 2016

October 20, 2016

Malinda S. Mitchell Quality and Service Award

The Mitchell Quality and Service Award, named in honor of SHC's former chief operating officer, are given annually to programs that have demonstrated exceptional quality and teamwork.

Delirium A group of talented and dedicated individuals created a multi-disciplinary approach for the management and prevention of acute delirium in non-ICU patients. Meticulously identifying risk factors for hospital-acquired delirium, this team successfully developed screening protocols to identify patients at highest risk for delirium, and implemented pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic strategies to manage it.
